University Renovation Proposed

State Auditor Says Modernization And Razing Is Needed

Building, renovating, and tearing down were recommended to Gov. Earle C. Clements by H. N. Jones, State Auditor of Public Accounts, in a report on UK recently.

In speaking of classrooms on the campus, Jones said, "Neville Hall is a very old building cheaply constructed. The third floor has been condemned and is not used. The walls are out of plumb. This building should be razed as soon as possible."

Jones recommended that Kappa, Pence, and White Halls be "renovated and modernized." He also stated that the various temporary structures should be removed as soon as possible because they "present a fire hazard."

Jones added that due to the large enrollment and crowded conditions two new dormitories—one for boys and one for girls—should be constructed. The report spoke of kitchen and dining facilities for the girls as almost unbelievable.

Construction of new buildings and renovation of others seem advisable because the decrease in enrollment is not comparable to other schools and the new structures will still be needed at a future date, the report indicated.

SGA Directory Will Be Out About May 1

Tentative plans are to publish the Student Directory around May 1, according to a report presented by the Directory Committee to the Student Government Association Monday night.

The directory, which was scheduled to be published in December, has been delayed because of the change of phone systems in Lexington.

The plans to go ahead and print the book is to offset a $250 SGA loss.

Type for the book with the old phone numbers has already been set. Bruce Ferguson, chairman of the committee stated. If it is not printed, SGA, who sponsors the publication of the book, will lose $600.

The directory can be lithographed for $250 plus preparation costs on the copy, however. The total cost, if this plan is adopted, will be approximately $2100.

The committee will give their final plans in a report at the next SGA meeting.

Tax Proposed By Dr. Dickey

Adoption of a retail sales tax in Kentucky was recommended Sunday night in a speech before the Winchester League by Dr. Frank G. Dickey, dean of the College of Education.

The state's present tax structure cannot adequately support the necessary services and institutions for which the state is responsible, Dean Dickey said. Raising the current taxes on cigarettes, beer, and pari-mutuel betting will not solve the problem, he warned.

Taxes Are Necessary
"New taxes—those which will result in a substantial increase in revenue—are necessary if our services and institutions are to be satisfactorily supported, so Kentuckians might as well remove the blindfold and look at the situation realistically," Dean Dickey continued.

"Twenty-seven states, including all those bordering Kentucky except Virginia, now have some type of sales tax, he said, "and it seems one of the few possible solutions to our problems here in Kentucky."

Would Bridge Differences
"Bringing the cigarette, beer, and pari-mutuel taxes up to the national average would increase state revenue by approximately $5,500,000 annually at the present rate of consumption for these items. Such an increase could not make up the difference between the amounts needed by Kentucky's state supported institutions and the budget that probably will be approved."

Book Store Manager To Reward Sophomore

James E. Morris, manager of the Campus Book Store, will award books each semester to a sophomore student who meets the qualifications of scholarship, need, and general ability. The announcement was made by Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary.

The books are valued at $50.

MISS CHRISTMAS SEAL, Ann Guthrie, Kappa Kappa Gamma, poses with William McLendon, of the Lexington Tuberculosis Association. The contest to choose Miss Christmas Seal for 1950 was sponsored on campus by Panhellenic Council. Each sorority nominated one candidate, and students voted by buying Christmas Seals.

Service Group Leads Polio Fund Drive

Containers for the 1950 March of Dimes have been placed at various points on the campus by Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity. A goal of $40,000 has been set for Fayette County. Last year's goal was $25,000. The drive, which began Jan. 14, will end Jan. 31.

Omer Stikeleather, president of Alpha Phi Omega, was named chairman of the University solicitations at a recent March of Dimes meeting.

Last year was the worst polio year in history. Kentucky had 679 cases, 31 being in Lexington and Fayette County. One hundred and seventy-two patients from Central Kentucky were treated in Lexington last year. Twenty-one were "iron lung" cases. Eight children died. Each polio patient last year averaged 50 days in a hospital bed.

Polio cost over $50,000 in Lexington and Fayette County during 1949 for treatment. Every cent came from the March of Dimes and the Polio Emergency fund, which are the only sources of income.

Seniors Are Offered Army Commissions

Eight seniors have been offered commissions as second lieutenants in the Regular Army upon graduation in June and August.

They are William B. Carlton, John D. Fechan, John D. Kuiper, Donald M. Laffoon, Henry W. Rawlings, Walter L. Roy, Darrell E. Seator, and Arvil L. Short.

Students Must Return Library Books

All students with books overdue at the Margaret I. King Library should turn them in before the end of the semester. Library officials have announced. A list of all students with overdue books has been given to the registrar's office and students who have not returned their books will be stopped at registration.

It was also announced that the library will remain open between semesters and fines will be levied on books during this period. No excuses will be accepted.

UK Scientists Develop Hay Fever Antiserum

Two UK scientists announced Wednesday the discovery of an antiserum which gives promise of relief to hay fever sufferers.

The report, contained in a paper read at the annual meeting of the American College of Allergists at St. Louis by Dr. Morris Scherago, head of the Bacteriology Department, was the result of a project begun in 1946 by Dr. Scherago and Mrs. Margo Hasson, a graduate student here.

Antiserum production is a "new approach in the treatment of allergic conditions—an approach that has never before been attempted," said Dr. Fred W. Wittich, Minneapolis, secretary of the ACA.

Experiments showed that when an agent to which a person is allergic is injected into the skin it produces a red rash, and serum from the allergic patient subjected to the agent in turn produces a

Bobbie Beam Contest Runner-up

Ann Guthrie, Kappa Kappa Gamma, was named "Miss Christmas Seal" at the close of the contest sponsored by the Lexington and Fayette County Tuberculosis Association Jan. 15.

Miss Guthrie lead her nearest opponent, Bobbie Beam, Alpha Gamma Delta, by 28 votes. Helen Heltsley, Delta Delta Delta, was third.

Other Candidates Named
Other contestants, in their respective positions, were Nancy Brewer, Kappa Alpha Theta; Eleanor Gash, Alpha Delta Pi; Jean Graham, Kappa Delta; Barbara Harris, Chi Omega; Martha Gaunt, Alpha Xi Delta; Sara Davidson, Zeta Tau Alpha; Virginia Meyer, Delta Zeta; and Gloria Travis, Tau Alpha Pi.

Miss Guthrie was presented a loving cup from the Tuberculosis Association by W. W. McLendon, executive secretary of the Association.

Students contributed $1144.74 to the local campaign.

The contest, scheduled to end before Christmas, was extended to Jan. 15 so that students could get their votes in after the Christmas holidays.

Aids Research
This money will be added to other contributions of the Seal Sale Fund and will be used to continue work in health education, fact finding, case finding, and rehabilitation toward the fight against tuberculosis in Fayette County.

"I wish to take this opportunity," said McLendon, "to thank all the students who have been most cooperative, and have shown their interest in tuberculosis work through their excellent contribution."

Dr. Clark Selected For Work In Austria

Dr. Thomas D. Clark, head of the history department, has been chosen by the U. S. Army to go to Vienna, Austria, to assist in the American history program there.

Dr. Clark's work will consist of delivering lectures and holding conferences on American history with Austrian teachers and students and surveying the content and adequacy of courses in American history as conducted at Austrian institutions.

His leave of absence will begin Feb. 27 and extend through June 1. He will fly to Vienna from Chicago Falls, Mass.

He received his bachelor of science and master of science degrees from the University of Illinois. Prof. McIntyre was national treasurer of Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary leadership society, in 1941. He also holds membership in Beta Gamma Sigma, commerce honorary fraternity, Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce society, Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising society, and the National Association of Teachers of Marketing.

Buyer's Association Elects Berean Head

E. B. Farris, head of the UK Division of Maintenance and Operations, has been succeeded as president of the Kentucky Buyers Association by Paul Nester, assistant business manager of Berea College.

Elections of the organization were held on the UK campus this week.

One of the visiting speakers at the meeting was Frank D. Peterson, UK comptroller, who spoke on "Current Development in Contract Making with the Veterans' Administration."

Popular Prof Award Goes To McIntyre

Prof. Robson D. McIntyre of the College of Commerce is the students' choice as the most "Popular Professor" at the University. He was elected Monday in the annual Popular Professor election sponsored by the Newman Club, and will reign as Rex of the Mardi Gras Ball on Feb. 17 in the SUB ballroom.

Prof. McIntyre is now with the marketing department at UK. A native of Wilmington, Ill., he has been at the University since 1925, and has conducted courses in advertising, salesmanship, sales management, and retail merchandise.

A former major in the United States Army Air Forces during World War II, he received the Army

Strike Halted At Fieldhouse

Work Is Resumed As Dispute Settled

Workers went back on the job Monday at the Memorial Coliseum after iron workers removed a picket line that halted construction two days last week.

Frank D. Peterson, UK comptroller, said the picket line, which has been respected by other crafts at work on the project, was removed Monday morning on instructions of a regional iron workers representative.

The dispute between the two crafts had been submitted to the AFL Building Trades Department at Washington for decision.

The picket lines were set up in a jurisdictional dispute between iron workers and carpenters over which craft should install chairs.

Non-Majors Exhibit Art

The annual exhibit of the art works of students who are non-art majors is now on display in the hallway gallery along the side of the Guignol theater in the new Fine Arts Building.

Students whose works are on display have all been enrollees since the last fall semester in art course, 51a, which is a class for artistically inclined non-art majors.

Suggested by Dr. M. M. White, dean of the Colleges of Arts and Sciences, this course was organized and is now taught by Doris Fitz, assistant professor of the art department. The class has grown so popular during the past few semesters that the enrollment in the course is now limited to 25.

There are no requirements for entering the course, according to Prof. Fitz. The problems worked out in the class are the individual problems of the students. Some students do professional work their first day in class.

This is evidenced by the fact that there are some very professional pieces of work in the current class exhibit.

Several students display great skill in the handling of their chosen medium. There is a clean handling of the water colors and pastels which is attractive. The pastels are especially fresh, vibrant, and alive, as are the water colors.

The students have chosen a wide variety of subject matter, from landscape, to still life, to figure studies. There are approximately 40 pieces of work in the exhibit.

Choir Festival Date Set For Sunday

The Community Choir Festival will be held at the Broadway Christian Church, Sunday, Miss Jean Marie McConnell, program director for the Festival has announced. The Festival is sponsored jointly by the Department of University Extension and the McDowell Club of Lexington.

Choirs from sixteen Lexington churches will participate in the program and church choir groups from several central Kentucky towns will attend the festival.

Community hymn singing will be directed by Prof. Donald Winters, director of music at the Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville. Miss Mildred Lewis, associate professor of music, will lead the audience in hymn singing. Dr. Frank Prindle, associate professor of music and director of the band, will direct a brass trio from the University Music Department.

The unity of the Union, however, is not in danger, according to Ollie McCormick, president of the local chapter of Kappa Alpha, who explained the whole mysterious affair.

Thursday, it seems, was Robert E. Lee's birthday, an important event to all K.A.'s. According to McCormick, Lee was president of Washington College (now Washington and Lee University) when the Kappa Alpha Order was founded there by four Confederate veterans. The Order has always looked on Lee as its spiritual founder and ideal of manhood.

To honor Lee, it was further explained, Kappa Alpha secedes from the Union and puts on a demonstration capturing the spirit of the "Old South" every year.

By the way, it won't be necessary to change your address book. Robert E. Lee Boulevard only existed one day. By special proclamation of Mayor Tom Mooney, at the request of Kappa Alpha, S. Limestone Street became Robert E. Lee Boulevard from 12:01 a.m. Jan. 19 to 12 midnight Jan. 19.

The UK chapter was aided in their celebration by the Kappa Alpha chapter at Transylvania, who also

The following rules of the Inter-Fraternity Council should be observed by all fraternities in the pledging of new members next semester.

1. List of prospective pledges must be turned into the office of the Dean of Men. A list of all men eligible to pledge fraternities will be released at noon Feb. 15. No rushes can be pledged until the list has been released.

2. Pocket pledging is illegal. Any fraternity reported or found guilty of pledging a rusher before noon on Feb. 15 will be penalized by a $50 fine and their pledging privileges will be revoked for the following six months.

3. A rusher must have a standing of at least 1.0.

TV OR NOT TV—That's the question in Betty Andes' mind as she runs through her UK Trooper routine for Jack Boyle, assistant director of TV at WAVE. Members of the Troopers tried out for spots on station WAVE-TV this week.

TV Director Says Troopers Should Be On Television

The UK Troopers, amateur entertainment group, would fit well into a television show, John Boyle, director of television at Louisville station WAVE, states after watching a performance of the Troopers this week.

Boyle said that the group contained enough talent to comprise a 30 minute television show. Bernard Johnson, instructor in the physical education department and director of the Troopers, said that some of the performers are a bit reluctant to display their ability. He added that students interested in trying out for the Troopers should contact him.

Stating that he is willing to come to UK for auditions anytime, Boyle added that he does not intend mixing UK performers with other actors on the planned programs. He said that he was interested in scouting other talent at the University.

Prof. E. G. Sulzer, head of the Department of Radio Arts, announced that the UK radio department had definite plans for television programs to be done in Louisville. They are to be scheduled regularly.

By Robert E. Lee

The United States of the Confederacy was reborn yesterday—and in Lexington.

Stars and Bars waved in front of the Administration Building as students walked to and from classes on Robert E. Lee Boulevard. Throughout the day, young men, attired in bow string ties, roamed the streets singing Dixie.

Several minutes before 8 o'clock yesterday morning the same group armed with a cannon, had raised the flag of the Confederacy under the flag of the Union.

The unity of the Union, however, is not in danger, according to Ollie McCormick, president of the local chapter of Kappa Alpha, who explained the whole mysterious affair.

Open Letter To Mr. Ruby

Jan. 15, 1950

Mr. Earl Ruby, Sports Editor
The Louisville Courier-Journal
Louisville, Ky.

Dear Mr. Ruby:

Regarding your article of Sunday, Jan. 15, entitled "Second Guessing" in which you took Kernel Sports Editor Tom Diskin to task for alleged second guessing on the Orange Bowl and Tennessee games, I think you owe Tom a very definite apology.

Firstly, Tom was not second-guessing. He was reporting what he saw at Cocoa and Miami Beach.

Secondly, you said that Tom had plenty of time to report the fact that the team was overtrained. Ours is not a daily, Mr. Ruby. Our last edition before the holidays was on Friday, Dec. 16. The first edition after the holidays was on Jan. 6. There were no editions between those and no opportunity for Tom to write what he saw. And what if he had? Would Coach Bryant have stopped training the boys so hard? I doubt it. I think your criticism is unfounded, Mr. Ruby. I know Tom Diskin as a cool, level-headed writer who does not readily criticize until he is sure of himself.

We students at UK have a lot of faith in Coach Bryant and appreciate all he has done for football here. We don't want to see him leave. But when we see the football players limping around the campus with various injuries we have our proof that all work and no play leaves a crippled ballplayer.

Second-guessing doesn't bring laurels to writers, but honest reporting is one thing pounded into our heads in the Journalism school from our freshman year until graduation.

Sincerely,
BOB COX, Managing Editor
The Kentucky Kernel

More Student Drama

A demand for a student dramatic organization on the campus has been needed for a long time.

A student organization, the logical source of which might be the English Club, should be non-profit and should be used as an experimental ground for all students of the University interested in acting, directing, producing, and other phases of theatrical work.

A group of this sort would not conflict with Guignol which is, as it should be, an organization for major productions. Consequently, it is not scaled adequately to take care of the student demand for theatrical experience.

—NELL BLAIR

There Is A Reason

Rehashes of the Orange Bowl game still rage on all sides. Newspapers from Chicago to Miami, including a Lexington paper, have discussed the lack of spirit displayed there by the University of Kentucky. And truth, as the hackneyed expression goes, is what hurts.

A Miami writer stated that our team lacked the "old college try" and that our cheerleaders were unable to gain even decent response from the Kentucky delegation. The Chicago paper, according to reports, used the word "cheap" to describe the school that refused to send its band to the howl and forced the cheerleaders to appeal to the public for funds in order to attend.

The local writer blames the failure to send the band for at least some of the bad luck the team suffered. Certainly when a high school band struck up a tune startlingly similar to the Tennessee fight song after the Wildcats' first touchdown, team spirit wasn't much improved.

We believe the ultimate truth is this—the University of Kentucky has almost lost sight of the human factor in education. Practically every activity has become impersonal and regimented. Student opinion is seldom asked on any issue. Twice in the last two years, SGA has approved major projects which have been cancelled by the administration with little reason.

It is time the University got over its growing pains and away from mechanization. If it is to remain prominent it must have a satisfied and spirited student body; one which can make more of its own decisions. Until that time students will display the same indifferent attitude found in all highly-regimented and non-representative organizations.

Every really progressive school has a strong student body which is active in every aspect of its program. They have a feeling that the school is theirs as well as the staff's and that their decisions are of some importance in its administration. In turn they are critical of their governing groups, student newspapers and other organizations, but without the cynical attitude so apparent here.

SGA will remain ineffective, the Kernel will print routine news, the band will amount to a few credit hours, the athletic teams will resemble machines and an ultra-conservative University of Kentucky will slowly shrink if something isn't done to improve matters.

This is not the only university which has grown rapidly since the war—it was a case of necessity. But when the present surplus of prospective students ends, it must compete with other institutions. The adverse publicity from the Orange Bowl fiasco may hurt more than expected—bowl officials have to fill a stadium, too, and in years to come that will require color, spirit and pageantry from schools attending. It would be well to have a reputation for it.

Letters To The Editor

An Ark

Dear Editor:

Can you tell me whether the University has let a contract for the construction of a bridge across the botanical gardens?

I have not heard any discussion to this effect, but surely such an enterprising university as this has long recognized the need for one.

In view of the current deluges of rain, which make the river from the west entrance of the gardens to the Fine Arts building practically unfordable, the authorities have undoubtedly perfected some plan to save the lives of hundreds of our shorter students.

Perhaps a quick course in swimming could be offered to non-aquatics as a temporary measure. I do not ask this for myself, as my height (6 ft. 1 in.) allows me to make the daily voyage without resorting to such exercise, but many students are not so fortunate.

If the University has not made any plans, may I inquire where I go to get a franchise to operate a ferry?

It is my intention to requisition an LST and convert it into a small scale luxury liner, for the comfort of students desiring to meet their classes at the Fine Arts building. This craft would be equipped with a snack bar, juke box, and a lounge with the latest travel booklets on the Caribbean.

This failing, I intend to construct a small raft with a sail sewn from one of the curtains in the Art Department. This would be a slower method of transportation, but nevertheless effective. For the overflow of students I had thought of distributing pogo sticks equipped with fog horn and lights.

Please inform me if you think this undertaking is worthwhile, or if the University has taken any measures on this line. Perhaps they could issue each student a pair of stilts, such as are sometimes used in Holland and other countries.

Yours for a somewhat less Atlantic Botanical Gardens,
John W. Tully

So also is Lexington the typical city of Kentucky and I'll wager General George S. Patton was the typical soldier of World War II.

When I was a student the typical male student wasn't good enough for the social fraternities and unaffiliated men outnumbered the fraternity members by 3 to 1. Mr. Bassett is no doubt a fine young man, but is he typical?

Oswald Jett

Editor, The Kernel:

Some years ago when I used to be around that old campus the Kernel used to publish a student directory.

I am interested in obtaining a copy of the fall issue of the directory that I trust is still run off the Kernel press. If on the other hand a later one has been published, that would do.

Just want to satisfy my mind on some questions that have arisen relative to the number of students, etc., now in the university.

If there is any charge for same please let me know when you ship it and I'll be happy to send check to the Kernel to cover same.

Cordially yours,
Jas. R. Rash, Jr.

(Mr. Rash's letter has been forwarded to SGA. He is being informed that no directory has yet appeared, a second delay being caused by the dial changeover in Lexington—Ed.)

A five-semester grammar course, covering four years' work in one semester, and offering six semester credits, will be offered by the German department next semester.

It is a new type of reading course in which the student reads and discusses the material read, and illustrates it. The new approach to foreign language study has been considered for a number of years, according to Dr. A. Bigge, head of the German department.

SNAKE PIT—Wandering photographer Ben Williams, in search of a copy of "The Bobbsey Twins Try Photography," strayed into the library this week, and was shocked at conditions there. "No table hopping, no frolic, no loitering in the stacks," Ben reported. Librarians say that numerous books are being removed from shelves, and to all outward appearances, are being read. The Kernel offers the picture above as documentary evidence of what's going on in the reserved reading room. (Faces have been blacked out to avoid any scandal.)

Have you ever talked to someone who gets sawed in half every night? Isn't bragging to say that I have because it leaves you with a woody feeling of wondering just who is being fooled. But believe me this girl from Raleigh, N. C., is together and quite well put together, too. Maybe, you might remember her as the girl Blackstone saws in half.

Miss 1/2 and 1/2 (shall we call her) says, "It's all done with illusions, but many times I've seen grown men faint in the audience when the saw starts buzzing down the table." This isn't the half (can't seem to be sure that word) of it though.

Miss 1/2 and 1/2 has also had some dramatic acting background and it helps to make the groans and screams more life like.

Just between you and me though, wonder what it would be like to go home and have to check to be sure that the rest of you really was there!

Just one thing—did anyone see Robert E. Lee riding down "Lee Boulevard" yesterday on his white horse, ummm?

Librarians Say 'Alas' Exams Come To Pass

By Joe Lee

Relax. Go to a movie. You'll pass. The Kernel has just learned the scoop.

Obviously, a lot of people don't believe they will pass. The mad rush is on at the library. All hours of the day and night from here on out the study tables will be groaning under the weight of the elbows of tired students trying, bleary-eyed to eek out a pertinent morsel of knowledge. (Pause for breath.)

Most of them will be trying to do in one or two days what they should not have put off until they had only one or two days in which to do it. (It makes sense. Read it again.)

According to Dr. Lawrence Thompson, director of libraries, there will be no extended library hours this semester to take care of the rush. Last year when the library stayed open extra hours no one showed up to study.

Everybody was going to the movies, or somewhere. Everybody was sure everybody was going to pass, and as far as we know, everybody did pass.

Library circulation desk employees say that more books are coming in than are going out. It seems that all students have their book reports, term papers, etc. done and are ready for finals. It's nice to be done and ready, or is the phrase done for already.

The reference room is jammed by students, but according to the lady at the room desk, few students are referring. It seems that they are finally getting around to reading their text books. Just brushing up a bit.

The Kernel was going to run a feature this week sympathizing with all students. We were even going to suggest that the library offer a free aspirin, or benzidine or caffeine service.

We were going to go literary and write something like this. Winter winds are sweeping across the campus, blousing shirts and flouncing blouses, and students, with drawn eyelids, are hurrying heading in to the teeth of it, heading for final examinations.

All this was before we learned the scoop. Now we know that everyone is going to pass there is no need for sympathy. You people spoiled a good story for us, but needless to say, the Kernel Staff is glad you are all so derved smart.

Latest Art Exhibit Shows Work Of Former Students

A collection of paintings by 20 former University art students is now on exhibit at the art gallery of the Fine Arts building, Prof. Edward W. Rannels, head of the Department of Art, has announced.

The exhibition, which will run until Feb. 5, numbers 42 pieces, according to Professor Rannels, and includes 19 water colors and oils, 15 lithographs and drawings, five pieces of ceramics, two weavings and one woodcarving. Also being shown are 11 paintings by a current student, John Gordon of Danville, and a collection of drawings by Chicago Artist Edmund Giesbert.

All artists whose works are featured in the former students exhibit attended the University within the past ten years while the art department was located in the Funkhouser Biological Sciences building. According to Prof. Clifford Amys, member of the art department who is directly in charge of the exhibit, this display is more or less a history of the accomplishment of the UK art department during the last decade.

A number of former students whose works are in the showing are now residing or working in places far remote from the University. Most of them are at present professional artists, teachers, or consulting designers. They were asked by the art department to send examples of their work for the current exhibition.

Former students who have submitted works for the exhibitions are Mrs. Jeanne Browne Craig, Lexington; Mrs. Betty South Jones, Louisville; Mrs. Helen Arnold Byrd, Falmouth; Mrs. D'Ann Calhoun Fago, New York City; Mrs. Margaret Hartman Ratcliffe, Hollywood, Calif;

Mrs. Susan Jackson Karstrom, Chicago; Mrs. Alice South Hume, Frankfurt; Mrs. Gail Kira Schneider, New York City; Miss Mildred Jackson, Henderson; Miss Lysbeth Wallace, Kansas City, Mo.; Miss Betty Brookler, Louisville; Miss Mary Sue McWhirter, Wilmington, Ohio; Joe Ward, Nashville; Edward Linville and Daniel Shindelbower, Cincinnati; Charles Boggs, Evansville, Ind.; Philip Hodge, Evans; Cecil Thrasher, Henderson; John Hunsaker, Frankfurt; and Juan Jose Balsola, Mexico City.

Leo Zimmerman, who has been studying in Paris, France for the past two years, would have been represented in the exhibition were it not for the fact that he had difficulty getting his paintings through customs.

The present show is a good cross-section of contemporary types of art. There are different types of media—paintings, prints, ceramics, and weaving.

For those interested in seeing this art show, the gallery is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

'Easy Chair' Editor DeVoto Calls Writing Hard Work

"Easy Chair" editor, Bernard DeVoto, told an audience of aspiring writers at the Guilford theater Wednesday afternoon that there is nothing easy about the life of a professional writer.

DeVoto, former editor of the Saturday Review of Literature and current editor of the Harper Magazine feature "The Easy Chair," in the first of several talks he is scheduled to make on the campus this week, spoke on professional writing.

"Skill" (in writing), according to DeVoto, "is a product of experience, criticism and intelligence. It develops from controlled, corrected repetitions of an act for which one has some knack." The phrase corrected repetition means that there is a great deal of work involved in becoming a writer.

Pulitzer Prize-winning historian, DeVoto, who is also a noted novelist, biographer and critic, is on the campus as guest of the University English Department. He is one of the featured speakers of the department's 1949-50 literary-dramatic series.

The Massachusetts author and critic has written a dozen books, the majority dealing with the development of the American West. Among his better known works are "Across the Wide Missouri," which won three national prizes, including the Pulitzer prize for History in 1948; "Mark Twain at Work," and "The Year of Decision."

Dr. Herman E. Spivey, head of the U.K. English department, says DeVoto: "so far as I know, no one has been rash enough to try to tag or classify him. He is a biographer, historian, novelist, literary critic, social critic, short story writer, editor, humorist, satirist and pessimist. But he is not exclusively any one of these. He is an individualist, arouser and shocker—a deliberate one I think, as deliberate as George Bernard Shaw."

DeVoto was born in Utah and lived until 1930 in the West. He taught English at Northwestern and Harvard universities, but for the past 15 years has been engaged entirely in literary activities. He is now at work on a new novel and a book on the famous explorers, Lewis and Clark.

In the principal address of his visit to the University Thursday night at Memorial Hall, DeVoto discussed the numerous legends surrounding the Welsh, or white, Indians. While doing research for his explorers book, the author uncovered quite a bit of information about these legendary Indians.

DeVoto is the fourth visitor brought to the UK campus in recent weeks by the Department of English and the College of Arts and Sciences. Preceding him were John Jacob Niles, Robert Frost, and the Margaret Webster Shakespeare Company.

Among those yet to appear in the current literary-dramatic series are Jesse Stuart, Archibald MacLeish, and A. B. Guthrie. Guthrie, author of a Book of the Month selection, is a member of the UK English department now on leave.

What with Tennessee lowering the boom once again there doesn't seem to be too much to smile about but maybe the silver lining will shine through come SEC tournament time. And when we get those Vols up here about Feb. 11—well, it'll probably be Katy bar the door. At least that's what we're hoping.
But to return to the (ugh) jokes, here we go one more time. And leading off how about this one—
Patient: Well, Doc, was my operation a success?
Voice: Sorry, old man, I'm Salm't Peter.
Chaplain: My man, I will allow you five minutes of grace before the electrocution.
Condemned Man: Fine. Bring her in.
And of course you all know that you can't tell how far a couple have gone in a car by merely looking at the speedometer.
Frosh: Something seems to be wrong with the motor.
She: Don't be foolish. Wait until we get off the main highway.
Guard (to prisoner about to be electrocuted): Do you have any last words?
Prisoner: Yeah. I'd like to offer my seat to a lady.

Bruce: Both.

Second senior: No, you busy?
First senior: Nope.
Second senior: Then let's go to class.
"Are you entertaining a man in your room?", asked the house detective over the telephone.
"Just a minute, I'll ask him."
One bashful girl worked all of her crossword puzzles vertically so she wouldn't have to come across.
He: Darling, I'm groping for words.
She: Well, you won't find them there.
They had been sitting out in the garden together for more than two hours. Finally, he became desperate and leaned over and kissed her. Immediately she began to shriek.
"Stop it, please," he begged. "I'll promise never to do it again."
"You fool," she answered. "I'm cheering."
Man (over the telephone): Doctor. Come quick! My son just swallowed my fountain pen!
Doctor: I'll come at once. What are you doing now?
Man: Using a pencil.

Tennessee, Georgia Upset Kentucky Quintet

By Kent Hollingsworth

Time was when a Kentuckian could dribble a basketball all over the South without anyone ever coming near him. People used to come and watch Kentucky teams trample the homefolks only to find out how many All Americans Coach Rupp could jam on the floor at one time. But that was long ago.

Nowadays, Kentuckians can't even chalk up a routine SEC victory without some Southerner wanting to argue about it. Last week they talked loud, long, and convincingly.

The Wildcats, who once rang terror in the hearts of brave men, couldn't scare up a nickel for a cup of coffee. Their long consecutive win streak was spiced at 55 games by un-awed Tennessee, and after bouncing back somewhat against a weak Ga. Tech team, they dropped another one to oft-beaten Georgia by a 71-60 score.

Of course both defeats can be laughed off as upsets, but many more hard knocks like these, and the Wildcats Sugar Bowl crown will be jostled right down over their ears.

The Tennessee loss could easily be expected; a bunch of sophomores who had come through seven straight games with all the pressure of a hydrogen bomb on them, just don't operate like a Swiss watch; they slow down sometimes, speed up at others, their potentialities glimpsed only in flashes of their peak form. And then, Tennessee is no pick-up team.

The Georgia loss is a little harder to explain away however. The Cats had torn Miss. State's Maroons into pink ribbons in Owensboro two weeks ago, and the Mississippians had beaten the Bulldogs easily, only a few games before. On a comparative score basis, Kentucky was due to coast in by a 20 or 30 point margin. Nevertheless they suffered their second SEC loss in three games, and their first loss to Georgia since 1931 when they bowed 25-16.

Stopped by Georgia

A start and stop Kentucky team was stopped for the third time in 13 games last Tuesday night, dropping a 71-60 decision to a foaming Bulldog quintet in Athens.

The Cats fought up hill all the way, as Georgia's Schloss, who dumped in 28 points for high scoring honors, kept the Southerners in front almost all the way.

Only once did the Kentuckians pull up even with them. Coming back from an intermission score of 39-31, the Wildcats scored eight times while tackin' a lid on the Georgia basket.

However Schloss hit two quick ones, and Rainey swished one from far out to throw cold water on the only spark Kentucky could furnish during the whole game. Georgia then slowly pulled away, the final 11 point margin being the largest score ever separating the two teams.

Plucky Bobby Watson led the Wildcat scorers with 15 points, followed closely by steady Walt Hirsch who tallied 14. Lower Line was next with 10 markers to his credit.

Big Bill Spivey, operating in front of the home folks from nearby Warner Robbins, played nowhere near his best brand of ball, and was considerably darkened by his rival center's flashy 28 points.

Substitutes: KENTUCKY—Watson (15), Strong (7), and Whitaker (4). GEORGIA—Rainey (11), and Williams (2).

Win One

Rupp's riflemen had a hard time finding the range, but once connecting, they spurred ahead to a 61-47 win over the Georgia Tech Engineers last Monday night in Atlanta.

It was a nip and tuck affair throughout the first half, with Tech going ahead 36-34 after the rest period. Spivey tied it up, Barney and Watson made it 40-36, and then Hirsch and Line took over.

The two left-handers fired from all over the court, leaving little of smoke, and left the dejected Engineers far behind as they pushed the Cats out to a 51-40 lead.

Vols Maul

Tennessee Volunteers fired the shot heard 'round the sports world, dropping the Kentuckians dead in their tracks after they had been walking rough shod over SEC teams for the past five years, scoring a sound 66-53 victory last Saturday night in Knoxville.

The Vols hopped out to an early 13-3 lead and kept it pretty close to ten points throughout the entire game. Only once did the Cats twitch showing faint signs of life. Early in the second half, Hirsch and Watson narrowed a 14 point margin down to a 45-39 score, but Tennessee called time out and Burris scored two quick field goals when play resumed to ice the decision.

Big Art Burris and Louisville's Dale Powell undoubtedly played their greatest games for Tennessee. Burris tallied 28 times and controlled both back boards to be the deciding factor in the game. Powell hit a spectacular percentage of his shots.

K Club Plans Donkey Game

The K Club of the University of Kentucky will sponsor a donkey basketball game in Alumni Gymnasium March 17. It was announced recently by President Jerry Claiborne.

Athletic Director Bernie Shively, Coach Bear Bryant, and other members of the coaching staff will compete against K club members in what figures to be one of the most interesting contests seen in Alumni Gym in years.

The donkeys will wear rubber shoes and play on a protective tarpaulin covering the floor. The spectacle has not been staged in Lexington in 12 years.

Claiborne also stated that plans were being made for a match the following night between two downtown business clubs. Admission price will be $.75 for students.

UK Basketeers Now Fifth In National Poll

Holy Cross moved up this week to take over the top spot in the Associated Press weekly basketball poll of the nation's sportswriters. Kentucky's Wildcats dropped from the second place spot they had maintained for two weeks to drop to fifth place following their defeat at the hands of Tennessee. This poll was taken before the Georgia upset Tuesday.

The Crusaders, currently riding the crest of a 13 game winning streak as against no defeats, took over first place from the St. John's Redmen who dropped to second. The Redmen hold a record of 14 wins against but one defeat.

A powerful Long Island University club hold the third place position in this week's poll while Bradley is in fourth place according to the sportswriters.

Holy Cross moved to the top of the heap when they rolled over Georgetown of Washington, D. C., 77-51, while St. John's was only able to sneak by the same Georgetown team 67-66.

Kentucky's hold on fifth place was a narrow one as an undefeated Duquesne team moved to sixth place just 13 points behind the Cats, 623 to 610.

Standing of the top 20 teams according to the poll are as follows:

Team	Record	Points
1. Holy Cross	13-0	937
2. St. John's	14-1	922
3. Long Island	12-1	871
4. Bradley	14-2	709
5. Kentucky	9-2	623

The Wildcat cagers, after their recent not - too-successful swing against Southeastern Conference competition, tangle with three non-conference foes in six days before a rematch against the Georgia Bulldogs in Alumni Gym on Jan. 28.

The toughies who will be trying to work the old spider-and-fly game on the much-traveled Cats are DePaul, Jan. 21; Notre Dame, Jan. 23; and the Xavier Musketeers on Jan. 26.

The Cats will be out to repeat their earlier 49-47 win when they meet DePaul's hot and cold Blue Demons in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night in the first game of a twin bill. Loyola, who handed the Cats one of their two defeats last year, meets Toledo in the nightcap.

At the present time, DePaul's record stands at seven wins and seven losses.

Kentucky was behind four points at 41-45 with three minutes left in the first meeting, but came on to edge out the Demons in a hard-fought game.

Leading the DePaul team is their 6-foot-6 size guard, Bots Goudarica, who was a constant thorn in the Kentuckians' side at Louisville. He rebounded against his taller opponents, swiped passes all evening, and tossed in 16 points to lead the Blue Demons scoring.

The Demons have met two teams that Kentucky has played. These were Bradley, who the Wildcats defeated, 71-56, for the Sugar Bowl title, and St. John's who beat the Ruppmen, 69-58. Bradley nosed out the Demons, 68-65, but St. Johns fell, 74-68, in an upset this week.

Notre Dame There Then comes the annual battle with Notre Dame, who may be the toughest of the three teams to be met because of the intense rivalry between the two teams. The Cat-Irish series began in 1928, and since that time, the South Benders have whipped the Big Blue in ten occasions, while dropping five verdicts to the Kentuckians.

This year, on the basis of comparative scores with mutual opponents, the Irish hold a slight edge, but on the season record, the Wildcats are far superior.

Notre Dame boasts a 7 won-5 lost record for their first twelve games, while Kentucky is ranked fifth in

Cats Face DePaul, Notre Dame, Xavier Fives; Next Home Game With Georgia January 28

The nation with a 10-3 standing. After dropping four straight games, the Irish romped over Purdue, 59-41, and later topped DePaul, 58-53. Kentucky holds victories over the same teams, but not by as big margins. The Cats came from behind to edge DePaul, 49-47, and led all the way in winning over Purdue, 60-54.

Notre Dame is again led by All-American Kevin O'Shea, their brilliant playmaker and high-scoring guard. O'Shea has been bothered by trick knees most of his playing days, but always seems to manage to get them in shape to play a stellar game for the Irish against Kentucky.

Last year, he finished as third-highest scorer on a Notre Dame team that won 17 and lost seven, finishing the season with 45 field goals and 78 free throws for a total of 232 points.

Cats Meet X Thursday Next Thursday night, the Cats will get another tough test at the new Cincinnati Gardens, when they meet Xavier University. A crowd of between 10 and 13 thousand is expected to witness the tussle.

With nine lettermen back, plus the addition of five men up from the freshman team, Xavier stacks up as a very formidable foe.

Pacing the Musketeers this season have been 6-5 Capt. Art Mortimer, a center-guard, 6-2 Guard Bill Hofer, 6-5 Center Gene Smith, 6-4 Forward-Center Dick Korb, and 6-1 Jim Karthol.

Expected to be eligible for competition that night is 6-4 Bill Cady, X's No. 2 scorer last season; Guard Mark Emerson, and Jack Collins, a recent Army dischargee who was quite a star three years ago for the Muskies frosh.

Xavier has three seniors, six juniors and four sophs on the squad, which averages 6-11½.

Georgia Next At Home After the Xavier battle, the Cats return to Lexington for only their fourth home game in their first 17 battles.

On Jan. 28, they are scheduled to meet the Georgia Bulldogs, who pulled one of the biggest upsets in recent years by beating the Blue and White, 71-60, in Athens last Tuesday.

The Bulldogs, led by their big 6' 8" center Bob Schloss, who poured in 28 points, took a lead in the first minute of play and were never headed, even though the score was tied, 39-39, early in the second half.

From that point on, however, the Georgians were on command with margins running from three to eleven points.

The Bulldogs had dropped a 51-40 decision to Mississippi State, a team the Wildcats had trimmed handily, 87-55. But this seemed to make no difference as the 'Dogs chewed the Cats viciously to stone for the many humiliating defeats handed them by Kentucky in the past. It was Georgia's first win over the UK cagers since 1931.

13 of 16 Games Were Away The sophomore-studded Kentucky team, handicapped by lack of experience, has had to get it the hard way by playing 13 of their first 16 games on foreign courts.

They have played brilliantly to win games they were supposed to lose, and then reversed themselves to drop tilts they were doped to win. But they have acquired themselves magnificently while playing before hostile audiences and on unfamiliar hardwoods.

Had the majority of the early games been played before the home-folks in Alumni gym, they might have even a better record than their 10-3 standing at the present time. There's nothing like playing in your own backyard to gain those all-important factors, poise and confidence.

Air ROTC Inspected By U.S. Army General

Air ROTC units of the University of Kentucky were inspected last week by Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, commander of the United States Ninth Air Force.

While here he discussed the Air Forces training program with Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, UK vice-president.

Claiborne Gets Most Valuable Player Award

Jerry Claiborne, Hopkinsville, was voted by his teammates as the Most Valuable Player among the 13 seniors eligible for the annual Lederer trophy. It was announced Monday at a banquet for the Orange Bowl grid-ders.

Last year, Quarterback George Blanda was chosen for the coveted award.

Claiborne, a 5-8½, 175-pound math and physical education major played offensive end and defensive quarterback for the fine Kentucky eleven the past season. He lettered three times in football while here at UK.

Jerry, who graduates in August, hopes to go into coaching. He has a 25 standing and in the two previous semesters the little blond knocked down a perfect 3.0 mark in his classes.

He is a member of the Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK), Lamp and Cross, Scabard and Blade, and the Arnold Society. Claiborne is also president of the letterman's organization, the K Club.

For the regular-season, Jerry led the team in pass interceptions with nine, for a total of 130 yards, including one for a touchdown. He had one punt return for 16 yards, and caught five passes from Babe Parilli for 54 additional yards.

The Cats will definitely miss him and the other seniors next fall. The other last-year players are: Dopey Phelps, Alt. Captain Dick Holway, Jim Howe, Ray Porter, Capt. Harry Ulinski, Lee Truman, Charlie Bentley, Nick Odilvak, Ralph Gentio, Lloyd McDermott, Bill Boller, and Charlie Bradshaw. The latter was declared ineligible early this past season along with several other conference players by SEC officials.

Sports Review

— By Tom Diskin, Sports Editor —

One of the highlights of the Kentucky-DePaul game coming up Saturday night in Chicago is the possible duel between two former high school rivals, UK's Whitey Pearson and DePaul's Bots Govedarica.

The Demons' ace guard, who scored 20 points against St. John's last Tuesday in Madison Square Garden as DePaul upset the Redmen, 74-68, broke the all-time basketball scoring record at Chicago's huge Lane Tech during his high school days. In three and one-half seasons, Govedarica racked up over 1200 points.

Kentucky's freshman guard, Dick Pikrone, who played with Govedarica at Lane, was the No. 2 scorer in the school's history with a total of 970 tallies in his three and one-half seasons there.

Whitey Pearson is considered one of the top basketball players ever turned out of Chicago's Senn High. He captained his high school team as a sophomore, junior and senior. However during this time, his team never managed to trim Govedarica, Pikrone and Company on the hardwood.

Incidentally, DePaul's Coach Ray Meyer eagerly sought Pearson for his squad, but the swift-moving Swede decided to come to Kentucky. Both Whitey and Dale Barnstable, who comes from Antioch, Ill., will probably be plenty fired up Saturday in Chicago's Stadium to look impressive before their hometowners. Barney is due to break out of his scoring slump soon. He's too good a ballplayer to be held to just four points in the last three games. This will probably be Dale's final appearance in Chicago as a Kentucky player. He helped break the Demons' back two years ago in the Windy City by scoring 18 points as the Cats won 68-51.

For B. H. The attendance figures for the last major bowl games were as follows: Rose Bowl — 100,963. Sugar Bowl — 82,470. Cotton Bowl — 75,347. Orange Bowl — 64,816.

We hope that despite exams a large contingent of UK students can arrange to make that trip up to the new Cincinnati Gardens next Thursday night (January 26) for the tilt with Xavier University. This should be one of the Wildcats' toughest games of the season. They'll probably need all the backing we can give them.

While the Big Blue is expected to be strengthened considerably by the addition of two tall transfers, 6-5½ Shelby Linville and 6-4 Read Morgan, Xavier is hoping that it can add three new players to the varsity roster.

The Muskies picked up a lad named Jack Collins, who was the outstanding player on XU's freshman team a few years ago and who just recently was released from the Army. He is bound to help them very much in future games.

A guard named Mark Emerson, from Hamilton, Ohio, will be eligible for competition on that date too.

Then Coach Lew Hirt is sweating out the return to the varsity of 6-4 Bill Cady, who has missed the first part of this season because of a leg injury. If Cady is ready by Jan. 23—and Xavier is really hoping he is—the Muskies will be a mighty tough outfit that night.

Cady scored 292 points last year as a sophomore including a total of 27 points against Kentucky in two games. He got 17 last Feb. 24, as 13,000 fans saw UK defeat Xavier, 51-40. This was a much closer game than the final score indicates. Midway in the final half, the Cats lead only 36-34, then Cliff Barker got hot and Kentucky outscored the Queen City eagles, 15-6, the remaining distance.

X is almost always tough in Cincy. Last season they won 13 of the 16 games there.

We hope some or all the cheerleaders can make the trip. It would be very good to have the band on hand too but imagine that because of exam week that is hardly possible.

A crowd of at least 10,000 is expected to turn out for this scrap. Tickets for this game went on sale Wednesday at Alumni Gym. All 600 are reserved seats, ranging in price from $1.50 to $1.75, $2.75 and $3.00.

It has been announced that the NCAA Eastern Division basketball playoffs will be held at Madison Square Garden on March 23 and 25.

The finals, between the Eastern and Western survivors, will be played on March 26. Whether this will be in New York City also is not known yet.

Dr. B. H. Wall, director of the men's residence halls, gave a banquet last Friday for the members of his three championship teams of last year. The Dorm won the Intramural titles in basketball, softball and touch football, thus becoming the first organization ever to cop the Triple Crown.

We understand that the Men's Dorms will floor another powerful team next semester, when the IM basketball competition gets underway.

Speaking of banquets, the Kentucky Wildcats were guests of honor at the annual Lexington luncheon clubs banquet Monday night at Joy-

Kentucky Basketeers

Shelby Linville Read Morgan

Many of the Kentucky basketball followers are awaiting the date of Thursday, January 26th. For, at that time, two transfer players, both sophomores, will be eligible for varsity competition and are expected to strengthen the unpredictable Wildcat quintet. It is also on this date that Kentucky will meet Xavier in a game that can go either way. It should be one of the most interesting contests of the season.

One of the new additions will be six-foot, five and one-half inch Shelby Linville, of Middletown, Ohio.

The other is Read Morgan, six foot four forward from Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Linville, who transferred from Miami, (Ohio), University last year, should be a great help to the team as they face the conference tournament in Louisville and possibly a national tournament in late March.

Coach Adolph Rupp is high on the 195-pound Buckeye. "This boy is bound to strengthen our squad," said the Baron recently. "You know, he can play at any position—center, forward or even guard."

Shelby, although he lives in Middletown now, was born in Dayton, Ky., on Nov. 8, 1929. He and his family moved to Ohio when he was a freshman in high school. That was a great break for Middletown High School. For it wasn't just a mere coincidence that the Middletown Ohio state title the following season, 1945-46, when Linville was a starting sophomore on the team.

Middletown High took the State championship the next year too as Shelby scored over 300 points.

In his senior season, the Middletown were upset in the District finals, but during the regular campaign they bowled over all the opposition.

The Middletown teams of this era were considered about as good as any in Ohio history.

In his three years there, Linville scored a total of 804 points in 73 tilts.

Against Xenia Central, one night in his final year, Shelby couldn't miss and racked up a total of 39 points.

Linville, who is a physical education major here, was also a standout for the Middletown High football and track teams.

Morgan From Wisconsin

Read Morgan, a transfer from University of Wisconsin, is also a P.E. major. He was born in Chicago, on Jan. 30, 1931.

The 190-pound Morgan played for Fond du Lac, Wis. High his first two seasons. Then he moved to Rufus King High School in Milwaukee, where he and his team won the city championship in 1948.

In his final three seasons playing high school ball, Morgan scored 502 points in 41 encounters, for an average of better than 12 tallies per game.

These two towering players will probably see considerable service for the remainder of this season. Just how many of these remaining six will be played in the new Fieldhouse is a matter of conjecture. However, no matter where they are held, the Cats will be out to ram down the throats of the Vols, Tech and the Georgia Bulldogs for their recent unpleasant experiences down in the Hominny Belt.
